LOCAL PEOPLE ENJOY TRIP TO PEBBLE BEACH

Last Sunday was beyond question the most pleasant day that has come this year. It was such a day as urges the owner of an automobile to go forth on the highway to indulge in the delight of motoring.

Consequently it is no wonder that George R. Augustien, who is the possessor of a new Studebaker of the Dictator type felt the urge. With his wife and happy children and W. J. Savage as their favored guest he set out with our Pebble Beach as the destination. The good fortune of the guest was occasioned partly by his knowing the way.

The ride along the Skyline, down the grade to Halfmoon Bay, and along the coast to Pescadero was pleasing to all of the party, but particularly so to the guest, as every sight and scene recalled the trials and triumphs of his boyhood and early manhood. Again he saw the Pilascitos school where he first felt the impulse of ambition, the Halfmoon Bay school where he graduated, and the Purissima school where he received his first lessons.

As the motor purred so musically, carrying them along so comfortably he told the incidents that had appealed to him in those early days. How proud he had been to ride a good saddle horse or drive a buggy where the beautiful highways are now. What was a good half day's work in getting from one place to another, then, is now only an hour of pleasure, thanks to the automobile.

He saw the shocks of grain in the fields and a threshing machine beside the road and they recalled vividly how once he rejoiced in the bountiful harvest of the old hills and dales. He met only a few of the boys and girls who in those ne'er-to-be-forgotten days were his companions. Too many of them have already ended their careers. As they were carried onward the ever present thought was "How big and beautiful our county is, with such wonderful scenery!"

It is not all surprising that it inspires all who live within its bounds to be ever grateful for their good fortune. Years ago when we were advocating the big bond issue it was said that if the roads were built this county would be like a park for the enjoyment of all the people. That day has come . On last Sunday automobiles filled with pleasure-seeking people were everywhere and not one was seen showing any sign of disappointment.

Our party reached Pescadero and found their way to Pebble Beach all too soon, the ride was so pleasant. After expressing surprise at the marvelous pebbles of the beach, which is so unique in its charm that it calls forth bursts of praise now just as it did a half centry ago, they rested and reflected. He who has not whiled hours away upon its pebbly strand, seeking for the precious carnelian, knows not all the resources of our county.

Mrs. Augustien remembered that even enthusiasts feel the pangs of hunger and the ocean breeze always whets the appetite, so she had provided an excellent lunch. Mr. Augustien set up the table and the chairs. No one would imagine he had brought along so much furniture. The fire was kindled and ere long the coffee pot was boiling and there upon Pebble Beach, free from sand, all ate with remarkable relish, the many good things that the forethought of the mother had provided.

Four hours were spent there wading in waves, climbing over the water worn rocks, observing seashore life, and watching the ships go sailing by. The return trip was by way of San Gregorio Valley, La Honda and the Skyline, presenting numerous pictures that live long in the memory. Despite the crowded highways, home was reached without the least effort or inconvenience before the lights were lit.

Every reader knows full well all that is printed here, still it will help to show how much may be enjoyed in just one day and all thanks be to the automobile and good roads. If you have not seen our Pebble Beacchc put it on your program for one day of real pleasure. You must see it in order to get its great charm.

DELIGHTFUL BIRTHDAY PARTY

A very delightful birthday party was given by Mrs. E. Hatcki 47 East Lake Ave., in honor of Kurt Scheel, The tables were beautifully decorated with pink roses and sweet peas the evening was spent playing games a splendid time was enjoyed.

Kurt Scheel, Raymond Widaski, Frank Leahy, Tom Bergen, Billy Coon, Ross McLennon, Crawford McLennon, Douglas McLennon, Juanita Nelson, Frances Nelson, Lillian Nelson, Matilda Farber, May Siebrecht, Leone Brooks, Mrs. Scheel, Mrs. Hatzke, Mrs. Schmidt.

AGED MAN ENJOYS SURPRISE PARTY

A surprise party was tendered to August Parmisano last Sunday, in honor of his seventieth birthday anniversary. Mr. Parmisano was totally surprised and enjoyed the day's festivities which consisted of an elaborate dinner, games and other amusements. The home was beautifully decorated in pink and yellow.

A large birthday cake on which were seventy candles, was the main feature of the festive board, which was also trimmed in pink and yellow to correspond with the color scheme of the rooms. Mr. Parmisano received many pretty and useful presents. After enjoying the sumptuous repast, dancing was indulged in until the early hours of Monday morning.

Among the friends and relatives present were:

Mrs. M. Rancatore, Mrs. T. Riccomi; Mr. and Mrs. August Parmisano, Mr. and Mrs. James Reardon, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Parmisano, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Parmisano; Rose Parmisano, Florence Rancatore, Evelyn Rancatore; Samuel and Louis Parmisano, Raymond Riccomi, Frank and Thomas Rancatori.

BIG CARNIVAL TO BE HELD AT SAN CARLOS

Only a month remains ere the click of the castenets, the soft thum-thum of the guitars and the sighing of caballero and senorita will float on the air at the San Carlos and "La Fiesta de Sanca Belposa" will be in full swing on September 17.

Features of the occasion will include the choosing of a beauty queen —Princess Sanca Belposa—a barbecue and dance. Entertainment which will begin with a water duel between the San Carlos and Belmont fire departments will end only in the wee hours of the morning, with a dance in which everyone will glide to the tune of one of the most popular peninsula orchestras.

Children, too, will come in for their share of fun, a greased-pole climbing event, potato race, and other humorous field-day antics being lined up for them.

FAREWELL RECEPTION

Mansueta and Ernesta, the sons of Mr. and Mrs Urban Granucci of Colma were tendered a grand dinner and farewell party at the Belli hall, last Monday evening in their departure for Santa Clara College where they will begin a new semester toward completing higher education.

The tables of the spread were arranged in banquet order and to say they were beautifully decorated is stating it very mildly. Seldom if ever did tables look prettier. Neither artistic forethought nor generosity was spared and they were loaded with choicest dainties.

The numerous relatives of the Bellis and the Granuccis were all present and also many other well wishers.

During the course of the dinner the toastmaster called upon nearly everyone present and as a result the young men were paid all kinds of compliments and not a little wholesome advicce was interlarded. Serious and humorous thoughts were mingled together.

When the tables were cleared and were indulged in until a late hour. Altogether it was decidedly an important occasion and attests the popularity of the two young men. May they win real laurels.

BIRTHDAY PARTY HELD AT O'CONNOR HOME

Last Saturday evening Miss Tessie O'Connor was given a party by her many friends in honor of her twentieth birthday anniversary. During the evening Miss Priscella Glen, late of the Orpheum Circuit, entertained the guests with her famous songs and banjo playing. The home was beautifully decorated in pink and white with the table set to match this color scheme.

Games and dancing were enjoyed during the evening and shortly after midnight a dainty supper was served by the hostess. When the guests departed in the early morning hours, everyone seemed pleased with the enjoyable time had by all.

Returns From Silver Lake

Mr. A. L. Stockton returned Sunday from Silver Lake after a very pleasant trip.

MAN DESERTS YOUNG WIFE ON THE HIGHWAY

Put out on the highway and deserted by her husband at 2:30 o'clock last Tuesday morning, a girl became the mother of a tiny baby girl beside the road near Menlo Park. She and the tiny new life lay there for more than an hour before the screams of the mother attracted passing motorists who had her and the baby taken to a hospital.

Her short brown curly hair was all tousled against the pillow and her gray eyes were wide wondering and sad as she told of her terrible experience.

With her husband, Helen left Los Angeles two days ago for Sacramento, where he was to get a position.

They had been driving for many hours without a rest and at 1:30 this morning, Helen became terribly ill and asked her husband to please stop the car.

"He opened the door of the car and told me to get out and wait and he'd get a doctor. I waited and thought I was going to die there all alone in the cold and stillness—and then my baby was born."

Great tears trickled slowly down the cheeks of her drawn face that spoke slearly of her hours of suffering alone by the road in the cold.

Finally she smiled like the best sport in the world. She seemed to have been convinced that the baby was real and that now is all that matters.

No trace had been found of the husband and police reports show no record of inquiries made by him anywhere up until now.

DAHLIA SHOW IN SEPTEMBER

Green dahlias, of the pompon variety will be a novel feature of the display at the annual show of the Dahlia Society of San Francisco to be held as usual at the Palace Hotel, on September 1, 2 and 3, afternoon and evening. The strange blooms are the product of the garden of Mrs. Ellie Miller at 124 Ralston street, and seem to be a distinct step toward the mystic blue dahlia, the aim of all dahlia growers, and until now sought through the lavender tints. Green pompons, fully perfect and like other blooms of the same variety, except for the weird color are very far from the usual reds and orange and pinks in appearance and Mrs. Mifler is sure that they will attract a great deal of attention.

Dahlia growing around the bay region has reached a peak during the last year or so and with the use of dahlias as cut flowers for every possible purpose from corsage bouquets to decorations for huge affairs a new interest is being engendered in the color combinations and the keeping qualities of the prize blooms. Each season by selection and care in growing, the dahlias are becoming useful for permanency and long blooming period during the time when show flowers are most in demand.

GEMS STOLEN AT REDWOOD CITY

Jewelry and rich house furnishings valued at about $5000 were stolen Monday night from the home of L. Simpson, 81 Melrose place, Redwood City, by what is believed to be the same band of thieves which has been looting the palatial homes of wealthy peninsula residents during the month

Monday night, while Simpson and his wife were attending a Hillsborough social affair, the burglars entered the home through an unlocked window and then ransacked the place.

Simpson reported the theft to Chief of Police C. L. Collins of Redwood City. A check by police revealed the following things stolen..

An Italian cameo pin valued at $500, three valuable Oriental rugs, a closet full of silk undergarments, ten suits of clothes, a revolver, a pair of diamond studs and an expensive floor lamp.

Recently the same band looted several homes in the exclusive Woodside district, where their loot amounted to thousands of dollars.

SPECIAL MEETING OF ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

A special meeting of the Jefferson Alumni Association will be called to order by President Harold Fisher this Tuesday evening, August 23, in the High School, at 8 o'clock.

All members of the association inlcuding the classes of 1925, '26 and '27 are urged to be present to make final arrangements for the big picnic to be held at Searsville, August 28.

BRUNT OF AUTO TRAFFIC IS ON THE PENINSULA

Travel over the peninsula highway at the Bay Shore road at San Bruno is heavier than in any other highway in the state, the mid-summer traffic census by the California highway commission showed one day last week.

Figures are as follows:

A total of 29,338 vehicles passed over the peninsula highway. This represents a new high record for highway travel in the state and wrests from the Los Angeles district the distinction of having the most heavily traveled roadway.

Indiana street in the Los Angeles district took second place. A total of 22,385 automobiles passed there.

On the Seal Beach highway at Los Angeles-Oregon county line, the count was 18,889.

Traffic in other districts, according to the survey, was as follows:

Southerly limits of Hayward, 17,206 vehicles passed; at Centerville the count was 15,610, and at Niles the traffic total was 14,059 for the day.

Traffic mishaps on the peninsula highway, considering the enormous volume of traffic that floods the roadway on Sundays and holidays, are comparatively few, police and hospital records of this county show.

SOUND THE SLOGAN, "ON TO SCHOOL"

With summer vacations drawing to a close, pupils of our schools and their parents should turn their minds to the important business of continuing youth's education.

The recent flight of Lindbergh is an inspiring example of seeing the task through. Just as Lindy turned his plane East and set out for Paris, so must the student turn his thoughts toward our educational institutions with the determination, "On to School."

We should employ as much determination, zeal and thoroughness in continuing this great adventure as Lindy did in his flight to France.

The happy partnership of Lindy and his plane, which he termed "we" finds parallel in our partnership with our schools. We should unite the spirit of youth with the spirit of education, just as Lindy joined the "Spirit of America" with the "Spirit of St. Louis."

Lindbergh did not make his trip primarily for gain but for accomplishment. However, the former proved a valuable by-product. Let us follow his example, and, as he did, continue our flight in education for the good of the nation and the cause of progress, as well as for the returns to youth. Though the impulse is unselfish its fruits are substantial, for out of such enterprise springs the inspiration that generates creative power. A hundred plans in aviation are maturing because of Lindy's signal achievement. A thousand advantages accrue from the achievements of education.

Pupil no less than aviator must follow through to attain success.

Lindy did not stop with the acclaim of the world ringing in his ears. He had just begun his start on a constructive career. He had finished but one lap of the race. The same application can be made to commencement and promotion in our schools; these are but steps to higher service.

Parents are reminded thet Lindbergh's backers had no guarantee of any returns. Loyalty and admiration for the spirit of this youth and the cause he championed inspired them to make any necessary sacrifices. This should be the attitude of parents and taxpayers who appreciate that education is the foundation for life.

It is timely, then, right now, when school days are just ahead, to turn our eyes toward our schools, also toward our boys and girls called on for an important decision, and sound the slogan, "On to School."

Construction work on a new $500,000 hotel for Tia Juana Hot Springs, Lower California, has been started, according to an announcement made by Wert G. Bowman, president of the Agua Caliente Company in San Diego. The hostelry will be of the old mission type and on the present size of the old Hot Springs Hotel, which will be torn down. Plans call for completion of the work by Thanksgiving Day, when a formal opening will be held.

Mrs. Roy Dardier of San Francisco, acting through her husband, Harold Dardier, has contracted to purchase for $160,000 from Mrs. Alice Bawden of Caliente, nineteen claims comprising the famous Amalia and Paris-Eclipse gold mines in the Lorraine district, thirty miles east of Bakersfield in the Sierra Nevada Range. Papers covering the transaction have been filed in escow with the Bank of Italy Branch there, after being recorded in the hall of records.

California's handsome building at the Nevada Highway Exposition grounds in Reno, Nevada, has been formally turned over to the Reno post of the American Legion. In future it will be the headquarters for the various veterans' organizations of that city. The structure cost about $70,000 and will be in future maintained by the American Legion posts of Nevada. It is of the mission type of architecture.

Ground was broken last week for the first unit of the new $300,000 building to be erected at the southeast corner of Fifth and Lucas streets, Los Angeles, for the Eye and Ear Hospital, Inc. This event is expected to be an important step toward providing Los Angeles with one of the most modern hospitals in the country wherein ample provision will be made for treating the eyes, ears, noses and throats of the city's indigent.

Construction has started on a $1,000,000 limit-height, class A, store and office building at 615 South Olive streets, Los Angeles. The foundation excavating has just been completed by excavatingg contractors, and workmen are now busily engaged placing forms for the concrete footings and basement walls. Pouring of concrete will be started this week, the P. J. Walker Company reports, and every effort will be made to have the structure completed within record time.

That many of the fruits of Luther Burbank's labors would be given to the world long after his death was well known when the naturalist died. Since his death experts have been carrying on some of his unfinished work, and announcement was made last week that following tests and experiments at the Burbank Experimental Farm for the past several months, 108 new varieties of plums and 32 new varieties of cherries are to be given to the world.

A sheepherder whose name the authorities failed to get was struck by lightning last week near Likely, Modoc County, as he sought refuse from a storm under a tree. The bolt tore off the man's clothing, ripped his right shoe to shreds, fused a legging buckle into a thin strand of wire and left him unconscious but living. He was revived by rangers and, though severely burned on the back and legs, was able to walk about without assistance.

No sign that says "For Women Only" will adorn the bathing beauty parade at Santa Monica in October when real estate men of California will gather for their annual state convention. Male realtors of the state, whether they are fat, thin, tall, short, bushy haired or just bald, have been invited to participate in a men's beauty parade to be held on the beach broadwalk.

The State Railroad Commission last week began the task of refunding more than $25,000 at the rate of $50 each to 501 truck lines, which had paid in the money to the commission as filing fees for permits to operate throughout the State. A decision of the United States Supreme Court some time ago held that private contract carriers were not under the jurisdiction of the commission, and for that reason the money is being returned.

A new California industry, made possible by the development of new machinery, is announced at the Johns-Manville Corporation plant at Pittsburg, this State. Quantity production is to begin at once on a new type of permanent fireproof asbestos shingle and special patented new machinery has been installed. High hydraulic pressures are made possible with the new equipment, which will produce a rigid shingle made of asbestos and Portland cement in new shapes, including hexagonal, and in several permanent colors. The hexagonal shingle originated in France but it is being widely adopted in this country because it gives an entirely new appearance to the roof, harmonizing particularly with modern American adaptations of the established styles and also because of the unusual color effects possible.

Motorists visiting Yosemite National Park should bear in mind that the new speed limit of 40 miles an hour, made effective by State law, is not applicable to roads in Yosemite, says a statement issued this week by the California State Automobile Association. According to George S. Grant, manager of the Association Touring Bureau, many motorists have been running afoul of the Federal government regulations in the valley under the erroneous impression that the 40 mile limit prevailed there. Regulations fixed by the National Park Service are the rules of the road there.

"THE TRAIN OF MEN"

By Wesley Strong

'Twas in the year of Eighty-two,
An old salt they nicked "Tattoo"
Came staggerin' in ter town
And circulated stories all aroun'.

"———Gold's in the creek, back o' the mount,
More'n I guess a Banker kin count.
Yeller, as yeller like the desert san'—
Hurrah fer the pick, hurray for the pan!"

So off to the mount by Cripple Creek
Tramped the packs of a thousand feet.
Slowly the anxious army trod
Over soil that e'en knew no god.

Up the mount about a mile high
The line disappeared in ter the sky.
Lost in the valley, they slowly climb
All livin'. The world is left behind.

On the mount like specks they seem,
Some waving back, kin har'ly be seen;
As dark clouds hoove, and cover the eye,
And cover the mount and cover the sky.

Lingerin' the creek they search fer gold,
Hooked on a drunkar's story told.
And I guess that's all they ever found;
Just ice and snow, bear rock and ground.

What's become of 'em we never learned—
'Cause not a soul came back or returned;
Fer that regiment that climbed the hill
Walked right in ter heaven or right in ter hell.

I guess it was the storm that crost
The hills and listed with its toll;
That regiment in search fer gold that trod,
And found a greater wealth—a God.

Overhaul Set for Summer-Time Duty

Outfit Must Be Gone Over and Put in Order for Best Reception.

Just as the family car must be prepared for the winter driving season by undergoing a thorough overhauling, so must the family radio set be groomed for summer-time use. In either event the preparations are simple enough, and should not stand in the way of enjoying to the utmost both these one-time hobbies which have now become such every-day necessities in American family life.

It is useless to claim that summer time is as favorable to radio reception as the cool and cold weather of late fall, winter, and early spring. It is not—and we all know it. Yet the situation is no different from that of the automobile: winter time is not as conducive to motoring comfort as the three other seasons, yet most car owners today drive all year round. So in radio, many things have been done during the past few summers to ameliorate unfavorable conditions in warm weather radio reception. Transmitting power has been enormously increased. Net-work station operation has placed the best programs in most parts of the country with the loud speaker volume of local stations. Receiving equipment has been developed with an eye—or shall we say an ear?—to lessening the static effect while increasing the apparent signal strength. In all, remarkable advances have been scored against summer-time obstacles. A large field for improvement still lies in the homes of the set owner. With this in mind, a few suggestions are offered in the hope that they will be helpful to the radio enthusiast in getting the maximum enjoyment from his receiving set during the summer months.

Powerful Signals—A Prerequisite.

Satisfactory radio reception depends primarily upon what radio engineers call the signal-static ratio. In other words, static is present in varying degree to the signal strength from the broadcasting station. With warm weather, particularly in humid, uncomfortable weather that presages the thunderstorm, the static level rises and becomes evident as a raspy background to broadcast music or speech. Fortunately, however, it is very rare that the static is sufficiently powerful to interfere with the signals of present-day broadcasting stations within their service range.

It is obvious, then, that the signal strength must be of sufficient strength to override static interference by a fair margin. Broadcasters have long recognized this fact. Transmitting power has been steadily increased from the early days, when a 500-watt rating was considered ample for broadcasting over a wide area. Today, the 500-watt rating is recognized only for purely local service, with a limited service range throughout the year. Many times that power must and is being employed in summer time for a service range of about 100 miles and over, reaching out into the rural districts. What is more, the rapid development of network broadcasting, making the best programs available in many parts of the country through local broadcasting stations, has had the greatest influence on popularizing summer-time radio not only by providing sufficiently powerful signals, but also in maintaining the highest quality of entertainment.

The first essential in summer time radio, then, is to tune in the most powerful signals available when conditions are least favorable.

Changing the Antenna.

Given a sufficient ratio between signal and static levels, the radio listener can reduce the undesirable background by being satisfied with smaller volume from his loud speaker.

Another effective method is to employ a smaller antenna. The antenna, normally 60 to 100 feet in length, may be cut down to 30 or 40 feet with sufficient pickup to intercept powerful local signals during the summer months. Or an outdoor antenna may be substituted, consisting of 20 or 30 feet of wire stretched about the room behind the picture molding, or otherwise placed about the house. A small fixed condenser of .0005 mfd. capacity, should be placed between the antenna and the ground binding posts of the receiver, to compensate for the reduced wavelength of the antenna, without material change in the dial settings of the receiver.

Interesting experiments may be performed with underground antennas, which are less subject to static pickup. Ordinary No. 14 rubber-covered wire, such as is used for exposed wiring, may be buried several feet deep in a straight trench, and then covered over, with the end brought to the antenna binding post. Sometimes the ordinary gas pipe of the home will serve as a satisfactory summer time antenna. In the early days of radio communication, two ground connections made at different depths underground so as to tap two different strata, were employed with fair results. The loop-operated receiver provides an ideal means of favoring signal as against static interference, because of its sensitive directional pick-up, enabling the operator to swing away from undesirable noises.

Advantage of Less Volume.

Aside from altering the receiving conditions, the volume of the loud-speaker rendition may be lowered so as to make the static background less conspicuous. In fact, most listeners do employ too much volume, and this is especially true in summer-time reception. The average radio receiver has a satisfactory volume control that may be employed in reducing the loud-speaker volume to the desired degree, to drop out the static background. If the receiver is not provided with a volume control, then a variable high resistance of at least 0 to 250,000 ohm range may be connected across the secondary of the first audio transformer as an effective and nondistorting volume control. Turning the filaments of the receiver up or down does not constitute an efficient volume control. It should be noted that filaments must be operated at the proper voltage at all times, irrespective of the volume desired. Dimmed filaments may result in severe distortion, while excessively lighted filaments lead to greatly shortened life of tubes.

Loud Speaker Amid New Scenery.

Distance never fails to add realism and maximum enchantment. If we may take this hint with our summer-time radio, do not fail to experiment in loud speaker placement. The loud speaker should be tried out in different rooms, with the listeners sitting at various distances. A marked improvement will be noted when the distance between loud speaker and listeners is increased. Or, if weather permits, the loud speaker may be brought outdoors, on the porch or even placed on the lawn of the country home. There is a positive thrill of freshness which never fails to arouse even the most blase radio listener-in when the radio is brought outdoors for the first time.

Among the radio listener's summer-time equipment, then, should be an extension cord or at least some wire whereby the loud speaker may be moved about the home and brought outdoors if possible. Of course, the purpose of the outdoor rendition is for the enjoyment of the immediate family and guests. The volume should be just sufficient for proper enjoyment, and at no time should it be so loud as to disturb the entire neighborhood, for that is not the purpose of radio entertainment.

Should "Hit on All Six."

These suggestions will help greatly, but it is taken for granted that the receiver is in good operating order.

First of all, the batteries, if the receiver operates on this form of power supply, should be checked over. It is well to remember that dry batteries dry out quicker in summer than in winter, and if the batteries have already been in use for many months, the warm weather of summer may soon exhaust them. Start out with a complete set of fresh dry batteries.

In the case of the socket-power receiver, the rectifier tubes should receive attention. In time these rectifier tubes become exhausted, irrespective of type. The best test is to have a fresh rectifier tube on hand. When there is a marked difference in reception between the old and the new tube, then it is time to change rectifier tubes.

The other vacuum tubes of the receiver should also be checked over, again using one or more fresh radiotrons as the basis of comparison. Nothing will improve results quicker than fresh radiotrons in all the sockets. However, it is usually possible to switch the same tubes from the audio-frequency sockets to the radio-frequency sockets for longer life, while placing the fresh radiotrons in the detector and audio-frequency sockets where good tubes are most important. The power tube should also be checked with another power tube of the same type.

Finally, the receiver should be thoroughly cleaned and tightened up. The condenser plates may be dusted carefully with an ordinary pipe-stem cleaner. The other parts should be brushed clean with a soft brush. The binding posts and screw terminals should be tightened. Wire connections should be tested to make sure they really connect.

With our receiver in proper shape and "hitting on all six," with the air lanes paved for the best of programs, and with operating skill in keeping with the conditions of summer time radio, you are now prepared to enjoy what the broadcasters have in store.

High Plate Current Is No Proof of Good Tube

A writer in Radio Broadcast Magazine tells of purchasing a tube in a New York radio store: "This is an exceptionally good tube. It gives nearly twice its rated plate-current reading," was the salesman's advice. To the initiated, the fallacy of this statement is evident.

"An excessively high plate-current reading is as undesirable as a low reading," says the Radio Broadcast article. "A tube should give its rated plate current. An excessively high plate current may indicate an exceedingly active filament, liberating electrons profusely or, more likely, it indicates a low plate impedance, which would cause even a most stable radio-frequency amplifier to oscillate; in an audio-frequency amplifier, it may cause exaggerated resonance points in transformers and loud speakers. A tube showing low emission may be improved by the ordinary reactivation process, but nothing can be done to make a tube giving excessive plate current entirely satisfactory."

GRADE CROSSING TAKES ITS TOLL

Most Serious Hazard That Safety Workers Have to Consider.

"The grade crossing continues to take its toll and is one of the most serious hazards that safety workers have to consider," says Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club.

"The record of grade crossing accidents in America," continues Mr. Hayes, "as compared with that of western Europe does not redound to our credit. True, America has more automobiles, more grade crossings, more miles of highways, and more railroad mileage, but our average of fatalities is much greater; according to figures for 1925, there were 19,900,000 motor vehicles registered in United States. On this basis, one motorist out of every 9,000 registered lost his life in a grade crossing accident.

Casualty Record Large.

"In France there were registered 1,000,000 automobiles, and one motorist out of every 45,000 was killed at a grade crossing. The comparative figure for Great Britain was one out of every 65,000. This shows our casualty record to be five times as great as that of France, and seven times that of Great Britain. If our safety standard had been up to that of Great Britain, we should have had but 250 fatalities, and according to the French average our loss should have been less than 400.

"Out of 232,755 grade crossings used by motorists in United States, only 27,161 have any form of protection, leaving 205,593 unguarded. In France, out of 32,500 grade crossings used by motorists, 26,000 are thoroughly protected, leaving only 6,500 unprotected. In other words, only 8 per cent of the grade crossings in the United States are protected as compared with 80 per cent in France.

"Our motorists are not less intelligent nor more reckless than foreign motorists. The odds are simply against them.

European System Costly.

"The European system of guarding crossings with heavy gates, operated by day and night watchmen, has proved to be costly; not only that, but most accidents are due to the failure of the human element. The most reliable system is that which provides for an automatic closing of the gates when the signal is dropped, giving the train the right-of-way. The French railroad interests are endeavoring to introduce the automatic scheme, which places more responsibility on the highway user. If the automatic system is shown to be as safe for the road user as the present and more costly one, it will be authorized and extended.

"The railroads in America have not been idle in the matter of safety," concludes Mr. Hayes, "on the contrary they have been extremely active, and are deserving of credit for what they have done. There is need, however, of closer co-operation between the states and the railroads, to the end that a campaign of grade crossing elimination and protection can be waged throughout the entire country and not in spots as is now the case."

High Speed Is Fearful Strain Upon Automobile

Figure it out for yourself! Drive 35 miles an hour for five hours and you make a trip 175 miles in length.

Average 50 miles an hour and you make the same distance in three hours and one-half but the saving of that hour and a half is made as a fearful cost to the nervous system of the driver and to the passengers as well.

The strain on your motor car increases in geometrical progression as the speed increases in arithmetical progression. In other words, the strain of driving a car at 40 miles an hour is four times the strain on the machine at 20 miles an hour, and at 80 miles an hour the strain is sixteen times as great as at 20 miles an hour.

The hazard of accident increases according to the same scale and a man who proceeds at an average speed of 60 miles an hour increases the danger to himself and his passengers to a point that makes the saving of time not worth the while.

Rough Roads Rather Severe on Brakes

It is well to remember that rough roads render brakes less efficient. Braking is dependent upon friction between the tire and the road. If the road is so rough that the rear wheels are pulled away from it on the rebound of the springs, this friction is greatly reduced.

In the case of the heavy car, this trouble is not so common. Numberless accidents that involve small cars are traceable to this cause, however. The driver approaches too near to the rear of another car at rather high speed. When the need for stopping arises, he finds his brakes inadequate even if they are working to perfection on the smooth highway.

Wooden Jack Especially Serviceable in Garage

When changing tires on a car with bumpers, it is unhandy to use a short-handled jack. Several makes of jacks, with long handles and low-lift positions, are obtainable on the market, but a good, wooden jack, which is just as effective, can be made as shown in the drawing, and will prove very serviceable, especially for garage use. A length of 2 by 4-inch wood is fitted at one end with a U-shaped bracket or clip, made from a piece of flat iron. About one foot from the end, a short section of 2 by 4-inch stock is securely fastened by means of heavy angle brackets. On the end, a T-shaped support is hinged and a small coil spring is attached to keep it pulled forward. A cord is fastened to the bottom of the T-support to pull it back. The handle end is planed round for convenience in handling. To use the jack, keep the T-support back by means of the cord, slip the U-clip under the axle, then bear down on the handle. As soon as the axle has been raised sufficiently, release the cord, and let the axle down on the support.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Lampblack for Polish

Lampblack, a soft, thick powder, is one of the best polishes to clean silvered lamp reflectors. A little of this rubbed over the surface of the reflector will quickly restore its brilliancy. If the surface is tarnished badly, use a paste of lampblack and water. This powder will not scratch, and, in addition to this, it seems to leave a slight film on the surface of the reflector which retards dulling.

AUTOMOBILE ITEMS

A fool and his car should be soon parted.

It seems too bad that after the brakes are tested the mental steering gear can't be.

Motorists still attempt to get across in front of a train and only succeed in getting a cross.

In the year 2027, says a college professor, there will be 32 times as many people as there are now, which moves the automobile saturation point farther off than ever.

Now that a phonograph has been devised that will change its own records there may be hope for an automobile that can be sent to a filling station to get its own gas.

GYPSIES ARE KEEPING UP WITH THE TIMES

Photograph shows the motor caravans of the gypsy tribe that visited Epsom Downs for the running of the English derby. The motor cars dispel any idea that the gypsies are not keeping up with the times.

CALIFORNIA NEWS BRIEFS

A section of a California redwood tree, 9 feet, 8 inches in diameter was speeding southward last week on the first lap of its Paris-bound trip. The relic is to be the gift of the State of California and the American Legion to the war veterans of France and will be presented when the Legion convenes there September 19 to 24.

Bids for the first two buildings to be constructed under the terms of the $6,000,000 bond issue voted the University of California by the people of the State in November, were asked last week by the Board of Regents. The buildings will serve as library and administration building, and as classroom and auditorium building on the new Los Angeles campus of the University at Westwood. One-half of the bond issue will be spent in Los Angeles, and a Mediterranean style of architecture has been adopted. Plans for the new building at Berkeley to match the present permanent structures are now under consideration.

The sixty-ninth fall registration of the University of California at Berkeley opened Friday morning, August 12. This registration marked the inauguration of a new policy concerning admissions. Starting this year no matriculation examination for students without high school recommendations will be offered except in a few limited courses such as music, bookkeeping and mechanic arts. Such students will be required to present certificates of examination from the College Entrance Board which examines once a year in June. The registration on the Berkeley campus this year is expected to be about the same as last year, 9,808.

The San Joaquin County Fair Grounds is a behive of activity, with preparations in full swing for the annual fair to be held in Stockton, August 23rd to 28th, inclusive. Two large new permanent buildings to accommodate race horses and livestock have already been completed and construction has been started on the new pavilion to house the poultry show. It will be 50x150 feet in size, affording 500 feet of floor space more than the building used for the poultry show in former years.

The duty of hanging three men will be among the first tasks facing the newly appointed warden, James B. Holohan, now sheriff of Santa Cruz County, when he takes office at San Quentin Penitentiary, September 1st. Execution dates of three men were received at the prison last week following denial of their appeals. The day Holohan officially takes the reins, Joseph Sandoval, convicted of murder in Ventura County, is expected to be hanged. Earl Clark, convicted in Los Angeles County, is to be hanged on September 23rd. October 7th was set as the date on which Milan Vukich, convicted in Placer County, will be hanged.

Preliminary plans for the erection of a $1,000,000 neuro-psychiatric hospital in Southern California for mentally incompetent disabled war veterans were announced last week at a conference between Richard C. Queen, State commander of Disabled American Veterans of the World War, and other officials of that organization. The first steps toward the actual establishment of the hospital, according to Commander Queen, will be taken after the expert opinion of officials of the State and various county medical associations has been obtained. Lay members of the veterans' organization have already discussed the matter and will launch an active program for construction as soon as plans have been approved by the medical world.

Midway Gas Company has applied to the Railroad Commission, in a supplemental application, for authority to purchase the properties of Central Counties Gas Company, Hanford Gas and Power Company, River Bend Gas and Water Company, and Valley Natural Gas Company, and to sell its own properties and those of the companies which it proposes to acquire, to Southern California Gas Company, the supplemental application being substituted for the application now on file at the Railroad Commission for permission for Southern California Gas Company to purchase all these companies in the first instance. In its supplemental application Southern California Gas Company states that the new method of acquiring these subsidiary companies will permit a more economical financing. Southern California Gas Company proposes, and asks permission of the Railroad Commission for authority, to issue $26,765,000.00 of Series "B" five and one-half per cent first and refunding gold bonds, and to use the proceeds to finance the purchase of the acquired companies, and for additions and betterments.

California's forests this year have suffered less loss from fire than for many seasons past, according to the mid-season report of State Forester M. B. Pratt, filed last week with Fred G. Stevenot, director of the department of natural resources. The total is placed at $216,722.

Location notice filed with the Kern County recorder by S. Agaitia, reveals the existence, according to the document, of gold and silver ore in the San Antonio mining district, three miles west of Lincoln Highway. The locator claims the full width of 300 feet allowing on each side of the vein.

Construction work on a new $500,000 hotel for Tia Juana Hot Springs, Lower California, has been started, according to an announcement made by Wert G. Bowman, president of the Agua Caliente Company in San Diego. The hostelry will be of the old mission type and on the present size of the old Hot Springs Hotel, which will be torn down. Plans call for completion of the work by Thanksgiving Day, when a formal opening will be held.

Mrs. Roy Dardier of San Francisco, acting through her husband, Harold Dardier, has contracted to purchase for $160,000 from Mrs. Alice Bawden of Caliente, nineteen claims comprising the famous Amalia and Paris-Eclipse gold mines in the Lorraine district, thirty miles east of Bakersfield in the Sierra Nevada Range. Papers covering the transaction have been filed in escow with the Bank of Italy Branch there, after being recorded in the hall of records.

California's handsome building at the Nevada Highway Exposition grounds in Reno, Nevada, has been formally turned over to the Reno post of the American Legion. In future it will be the headquarters for the various veterans' organizations of that city. The structure cost about $70,000 and will be in future maintained by the American Legion posts of Nevada. It is of the mission type of architecture.

Ground was broken last week for the first unit of the new $300,000 building to be erected at the southeast corner of Fifth and Lucas streets, Los Angeles, for the Eye and Ear Hospital, Inc. This event is expected to be an important step toward providing Los Angeles with one of the most modern hospitals in the country wherein ample provision will be made for treating the eyes, ears, noses and throats of the city's indigent.

Construction has started on a $1,000,000 limit-height, class A, store and office building at 615 South Olive streets, Los Angeles. The foundation excavating has just been completed by excavatingg contractors, and workmen are now busily engaged placing forms for the concrete footings and basement walls. Pouring of concrete will be started this week, the P. J. Walker Company reports, and every effort will be made to have the structure completed within record time.

That many of the fruits of Luther Burbank's labors would be given to the world long after his death was well known when the naturalist died. Since his death experts have been carrying on some of his unfinished work, and announcement was made last week that following tests and experiments at the Burbank Experimental Farm for the past several months, 108 new varieties of plums and 32 new varieties of cherries are to be given to the world.

A sheepherder whose name the authorities failed to get was struck by lightning last week near Likely, Modoc County, as he sought refuse from a storm under a tree. The bolt tore off the man's clothing, ripped his right shoe to shreds, fused a legging buckle into a thin strand of wire and left him unconscious but living. He was revived by rangers and, though severely burned on the back and legs, was able to walk about without assistance.

No sign that says "For Women Only" will adorn the bathing beauty parade at Santa Monica in October when real estate men of California will gather for their annual state convention. Male realtors of the state, whether they are fat, thin, tall, short, bushy haired or just bald, have been invited to participate in a men's beauty parade to be held on the beach broadwalk.

The State Railroad Commission last week began the task of refunding more than $25,000 at the rate of $50 each to 501 truck lines, which had paid in the money to the commission as filing fees for permits to operate throughout the State. A decision of the United States Supreme Court some time ago held that private contract carriers were not under the jurisdiction of the commission, and for that reason the money is being returned.

A new California industry, made possible by the development of new machinery, is announced at the Johns-Manville Corporation plant at Pittsburg, this State. Quantity production is to begin at once on a new type of permanent fireproof asbestos shingle and special patented new machinery has been installed. High hydraulic pressures are made possible with the new equipment, which will produce a rigid shingle made of asbestos and Portland cement in new shapes, including hexagonal, and in several permanent colors. The hexagonal shingle originated in France but it is being widely adopted in this country because it gives an entirely new appearance to the roof, harmonizing particularly with modern American adaptations of the established styles and also because of the unusual color effects possible.

Motorists visiting Yosemite National Park should bear in mind that the new speed limit of 40 miles an hour, made effective by State law, is not applicable to roads in Yosemite, says a statement issued this week by the California State Automobile Association. According to George S. Grant, manager of the Association Touring Bureau, many motorists have been running afoul of the Federal government regulations in the valley under the erroneous impression that the 40 mile limit prevailed there. Regulations fixed by the National Park Service are the rules of the road there.

NEW WONDERS PROMISED

Scientific progress continues at a marvelous pace, so that we never know what new wonder tomorrow may bring forth. Two new marvels are promised soon, according to a press dispatch, which tells of airplane power by wireless, and a motor fuel formed by dissolving a chemical capsule in water.

Nicola Tesla, famed inventor of electrical and radio appliances, predicts that aircraft will be driven by light electric motors receiving their power from generating stations on the ground. He claims that he has demonstrated that power by wireless can be transmitted half way around the earth without losing as much as 1 per cent of its energy.

R. Rex Renee, wartime aviator, declares that he is having built an airplane capable of a speed of 375 miles an hour, in which he expects to make a round trip between New York and Paris in September, requiring but twenty-four hours. He claims to have the secret of the new chemical fuel which will make this speed possible.

Whether these two revolutionary innovations shall materialize remains to be seen, but their announcement in any event indicates the daring ideas which men are employing in their further conquests of the air.

AUTHOR OF "DIXIE"

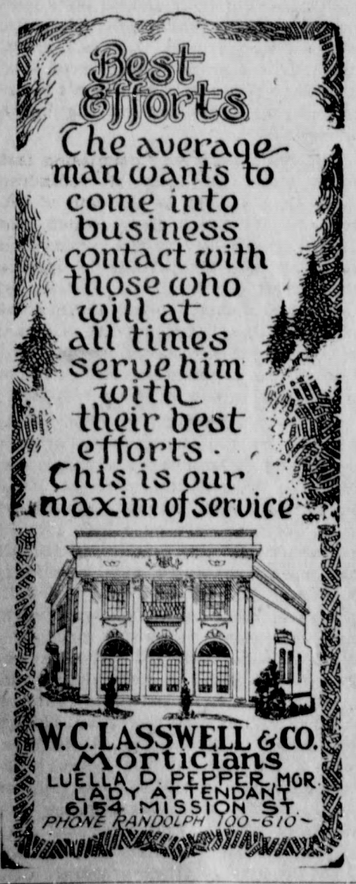
Whenever the stirring tune "Dixie" is played, particularly in the South, it is met with hearty applause. Thus do Southerners pay tribute, unconsciously as a rule, to an Ohio Yankee.

For "Dixie" was composed by Daniel Decatur Emmett, born in Mount Vernon, Ohio, in 1918, and who, like that other sweet singer of Southern songs, Stephen Foster, never lived in the South.

Emmett was one of the organizers of the first negro minstrel company to tour the country, formed in 1842, when it opened in Chatham Square Theatre, New York. He was afterward associated with Dan Bryant, and in 1865 he formed his own company. He retired in 1878 and died in 1904 at the age of 89.

The song "Dixie" was written in 1859 and instantly became popular. The South adopted it and now after sixtey-eight years it stirs its hearers with undiminished enthusiasm.

Recently a tablet to Emmett's memory was unveiled in the churchyard of Calvary Episcopal church at Fletcher, N. C., the first memorial to be erected to him in the South, marking another link in the chain which binds a reunited country.



A SMILE-MAKER'S GRIEF

The whole English-speaking world will share the grief of a former Scotch miner, who has just lost his sweetheart, a former Salvation Army lassie.

Reports from Dunoon, Scotland, state that Sir Harry Lauder is prostrated over the death of Lady Lauder, which occurred after a surgical operation.

The rise of this sterling Scotch couple is a romantic episode in British history. Harry Lauder was born to a miner's toil. Annia Vallance was one of seventeen children of a miner. As a child she worked in a flax mill for a pittance, later joining the Salvation Army. They were married in 1890.

Lauder had a comical vein which made him popular in local miners' entertainments, and once when a strike threw him out of work his wife encouraged him to try his luck as a professional comedian. She proved a constant inspiration, and he eventually reached the pinnacle of success. He was knighted by King George in 1919.

Both, in spite of their humble birth, were unspoiled by later success and wealth. Harry Lauder has remained the most genial and unassuming of men. Lady Lauder's bright vivacious temperament and natural manner won her friends everywhere.

Their first great grief was occasioned by the loss of their son, Capt. John Lauder, who was killed in the battle of the Somme in 1916. Now Sir Harry has lost his companion of thirty-seven years.

The countless thousands who have been made to smile by his consummate artistry will sympathize with him in his great sorrow.

"Boy Saves Father From Bull"—Headline. A son like that would be worth having around during a political campaign.

More women than men are taking up pharmacy in Spain. They should be experts in compounding nut sundaes and rouge.

Colma News Notes

Mr. James T. Casey, who is hanling the Colma to Daly City annexation petition this week, reports that well over one hundred signatures have been secured for it. In nearly every case signatures have been secured when requested. Little opposition is anticipated. Little opposinumber of names will be secured in a few more days. The petition will be presented to the Daly City Board of Trustees next Monday, August 22, according to its backers.

The Standard Oil service station at Mission and School streets was robbed of $55 early Monday morning by thieves who broke in the building.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Millett and family returned from Portland, Oregon, on Monday after a two weeks' trip.

The whist held Thursday evening for the benefit of Holy Angel's church, in the church hall, was a big success. A large measure of this can be attributed to the ladies of the parish who conducted the event under the capable leadership of Mrs. A. Benassini.

Mr. L. Nava and Mr. R. Melan returned Monday after two weeks in Lake county. Their deer-hunting was very fortunate and they eat heartily of venison this week.

Mrs. Wardell returned Saturday from a week's trip to Los Angeles. She visited friends and relatives therebut gladly returned to our cooler climate.

Lettuce and cabbage are moving slowly but steadily through the Colma freight yards. Little else is being received.

Mrs. A. Heitmann, nee Anita Witt, will hold a reception Tuesday afternoon at her new home on Mission street. A number of old friends in Colma ,her home-town, have received invitations to attend.

Mrs. J. Biggio returned last week after three months with friends in Fairfax.

A Buick touring car, traveling south at a fair speed Sunday afternoon, struck a Hudson coach turninging from Mission on to School street. The right rear fender was torn clearing off the latter car, but no other damage was done. Both cars were insured.

Sunday school has again been resumed at Holy Angel's church after the vacation period and is held regularly after the 9:30 a. m. mass. Catechism classes, conducted by two Sisters of the Holy Family, are held every Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons after school hours. Father Bertola will appreciate the co-operation of parents in sending their children to these services.

Miss Violet Ver Linden, postmistress of Colma, was elected a delegate to the national convention of the League of District Postmasters of the United States at the State convention last week at Redondo Beach. The national convention will be held during October in Louisville, Kentucky. Miss Ver Linden is to be highly congratulated on her election. It is a sincere testimony to her excellent work for several years as postmaster of the Colma districtc. Since she has had the position the office was enlarged once, then moved to far better quarters and enlarged again. With the aid of her sister, Fabian, the two girls have built up an excellent unit of our great American chain of communication. She returned Saturday frmo the Redondo convention after a week there.

Miss Josephine Heinzle, eldest daughter of Mrs. Heinzle of Patterson, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Heinzle at Daly City. Miss Heinzle was formerly from Colma and while here visited many of her old friends and acquaintances who were glad to see her. She leaves for home in a few days. The Heinzles will motor down and spend an enjoyable week-end with her.

Adding much to the improvement of Colma is a newly laid sidewalk and concrete fence which is being erected on the old San Bruno road by Mr. Leon Domecus, Mr. Joseph Schindler, Sr., and Mr. Vermund Gioldi. When completed this new improvement will add greatly to the appearance of their residences.

$10,000,000 FOR NEW HIGHWAYS

With the formation in San Francisco on Tuesday August 31st, of a highway district by representatives of the boards of supervisors of San Francisco, San Mateo and Santa Cruz counties, for the purpose of constructing a highway along the coast, from San Francisco to Santa Cruz, there will have been taken a step that will set in motion, a work which will prove to be the greatest achievement ever recorded for San Mateo

The widening and extension of Daly City and Colma to connect with a new central San Mateo county highway was practically assured Monday when the San Francisco supervisors, without debate, gave unanimous approval to the naming of a committee to meet with the San Mateo supervisors for the formation of a joint highway district by the two counties.

With the combining of the three counties and the building of two new roads to cost $10,000,000 San Mateo county will be rewarded as never before.

"BEYOND THE HORIZON"

By Wesley Strong

I

Sometimes I think Birth is only Sorrow
And Death a series of Dreams;
Aspiring thru the years a certain Tomorrow
Lifts upon the horizon and for us timely beams.

II

The Caravan of Life which moves us thru the years
A tedious journey to the end:
Lowly passions and esteem—there are tears
'Till the hour of Quietude descends.

III

The babe of birth, its children come to mourn,
When Age has turned the hair—
So 'tis with all—in this wilderness forlorn,
Sweet Sadness; when in death; lie prone and austere.

IV

Toward the stars I look at Night, when I'm alone.
And I dream of the great abode ayond.
No tear or sorrow, the greatest Life is won
When I drape my robes for the beyond.

MUST OBSERVE SPEED RULES IN YOSEMITE

Motorists of this section visiting Yosemite National Park should bear in mind that the new speed limit of 40 miles an hour, made effective by state law, is not applicable to roads in Yosemite.

Many motorists have been running afoul of the Federal government regulations in the valley under the entirely erroneuos impression that the 40 mile limit prevailed there. Regulations fixed by the National Park Service are the rules of the road in Yosemite.

The maximum limit allowed on the straight stretches of open road on the floor of the valley is 30 miles an hour. Through villages or camps, crossing bridges, passing vehicles, at intersections or where visibility is obscured, the limit is 20 miles an hour. On all other roads within the Park boundaries, the limit is 15 miles on grades and around sharp curves, and 20 miles on straight stretches.

AN UNUSUAL NATION

So accustomed are the people of the United States to continue telephone service, night or day, week day, Sunday or holiday, that it is difficult for Americans to appreciate that this condition is not typical of telephone service throughout the world. As a matter of fact, continous service is the exception rather than the rule in most foreign countries. Outside of national capitals and the largest cities, all-night service is quite unusual.

Preserving is cool and easy with the Oven Heat Control

YOU can preserve summer fruits that taste as delicious and remain as firm as on the day they were picked from the laden bough. Briefly, here's a cool, easy way—

Cool because you don't have to lift boiling kettles about the stove.

Easy because the Oven Heat Control on the new Gas Range is the secret of delicious home preserving that is done in the oven without watching or anxiety. Fruit is packed right in jars and put into the oven. You merely set the Oven Heat Control and steady, even heat preserves the fruit's firmness, its delicious fruit-flavor and color. Jams and jellies also are well preserved by this cool, simple way.

YOUNG WOMEN MAY KEEP WELL

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Here is Proof

St. Paul, Minn.—"Here is a little advice I would like to have you put in the papers," Mrs. Jack Lorberter of 704 Dellwood Place wrote to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company. "If young women want to keep their health and strength for the next thirty years of their lives, it is best to start in right now and take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have tried the Compound myself and received fine results from its use." In describing her condition before taking the Compound, she writes, "I was afraid in my own house in broad daylight, I used to lock the doors and pull down the shades so that nobody could see me." One day a booklet advertising the Vegetable Compound was left on her porch and she read it through. In so doing, she found a letter from a woman whose condition was similar to her own. "I bought Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound," Mrs. Lorberter continued, "and have had fine results. My condition made me a burden to my husband. Now I ask him, "How is housekeeping?" and he says, "It is just like being in Heaven!" Are you on the Sunlit Road to Better Health?

STORY FROM THE START

Dr. Ronald McAlister, famous in his special work — applied psychology—employs his leisure time in the elucidation of crime mysteries. As the narrative opens he is interested with Assistant District Attorney Ashton in the murder, in the small town of Oak Ridge, of a recluse, Henry Morgan. The murdered man, his papers reveal, had been in New Zealand, where Doctor McAlister had lived in his youth. Will Harvey has testified he saw a woman wearing a green cloak in the Morgan home the night of the murder. Doctor Reinhardt, friend of McAlister, telephones he has a queer case in his hospital and invites McAlister to see the patient. Doctor Reinhardt's patient proves to be a young woman, who in unconsciousness mutters in a language Reinhardt does not understand. McAlister sees a possible connection between the murdered New Zealander and the girl. A carefully hidden map is discovered. A girl enters the house in the darkness and escapes, leaving a green cloak behind. McAlister decides upon a psychological test of Harvey.

With a feeling of excitement which I found it hard to conceal, I began reading those first twelve neutral words. His answers came with flash-like rapidity. He was a good subject and he had entered fully into the spirit of the test. To my ear the interval between my word and his was about half a second. When I saw the record afterward, I found that it averaged a little less than that—about four-tenths.

The word Pen brought the obvious association, Ink. Snow called up Shovel; and Song, Theater. The twelfth word, Sign, called up the curious association, Woodland, which was to prove of interest and significance to us before the day was out. But I had no time to think about it then.

Without varying the interval, without varying the tone of my voice, or raising my eyes from the list I held in my hand, I pronounced the thirteenth word, Loops.

The answer came like a flash, and it was Automobile. I glanced up as he said it, and caught a faint smile of reminiscence on his lips. Loops in his mind were things to be looped, and the circus billboards supplied the association with automobile. The next word Pipe, brought the simple association, Tobacco. To my mind his unhesitating utterance of that word was as good a demonstration of his innocence of the crime itself as a completely established alibi would have been.

But we were only at the beginning of our experiment. Neither the doctor nor I believed him guilty. We both believed that, hidden in some corner of that mind of his, was a piece of unsuspected knowledge which would give us the key with which to unlock the heart of the mystery.

Three or four numbers down the list came another word, Map, which might have drawn a significant reply. The instantaneous association which it brought up, however, was Europe. After that came a succession of words, straight inventories of articles to be found in various rooms in the Morgan house, but they all drew blank. Never once was there a moment's hesitation.

So far our test proved, clearly and exhaustively, that, in his testimony at the inquest, our young man had meant to tell the truth. I was reminded of the doctor's words on the night of our return from the hospital, when he had warned me against falling into the error of thinking that the unlikely could not happen. His old theory of associative illusion, which had been made to look so fantastically improbable by our discovery of the cloak, was practically proven true in the very teeth of its improbability by this test of ours.

But who was the girl Harvey knew—the black-haired girl who wore a green cloak, with the collar cut high in the back? We were as far as ever from the answer to that question.

And so far as I could see none of his associates with the successive words in my list brought out anything of significance. Apparently we were drawing blank cover. At the same time, I was aware that something or other had made my chief extremely thoughtful. The way he was opening and shutting his hands and staring out of the window, the perplexed frown which knitted his brows, made it clear that there was only one link lacking in some chain of association of his own.

At last as I glanced at him in the half second interval between my word and Harvey's, I saw that he had got it; saw the sudden flare of excitement kindle in his eyes and his two clenched hands come down softly on the arms of his chair.

The next moment the word Dance in my list brought the unexpected association Policeman from Harvey.

At that the doctor rose and interrupted the test. "I think, Phelps," he said, "that those negatives of yours must be done. I'll go on and read this other list to Mr. Harvey."

The errand he had proposed to me was purely fictitious and the sheet of paper he held in his hand was blank; so I interpreted his interruption as intended for the mere purpose of giving him a chance to catechise Harvey along some new line without causing him to suspect the reason for the change.

To give color to the excuse, I left the room for a few moments, but it will be easy to believe that I returned as soon as I plausibly could. I found Doctor McAlister pronouncing a succession of words rather more rapidly than I had read them from my list, and the young man's answer had quickened, too, so that to the ear they were almost instantaneous. The words were a list of the features of the human face. Ears was the first one I heard, and its association, instantly, Coral; probably a reference to earrings, I thought. Eyes produced the adjective Black. Lips, ludicrously enough, brought the involuntary admission, Kiss. And at that our subject went flaming red. His perturbation was made perfectly evident the next moment, when he waited four seconds after the word Hand, only to produce the rhymed association, Band. Nothing could have been clearer than that, being on his guard against making another involuntary admission, he had rejected whatever word had come first, and consciously and laboriously thought up another.

The next word Face, brought, as a rather quicker response, the adjective Nice. It did not occur to me at the time that this was a rhymed association also; that somebody he knew pronounced it "fice." But that the doctor's mind had jumped to this conclusion was made clear when, for his next word, he himself gave out the word English.

There Was a Scared Look in His Eyes, but, Besides That, He Was Evidently Extremely Angry.

This got an answer, but not the kind of answer we were expecting. Our witness jumped to his feet, knocking over the little telephone before him, as he did so. There was a scared look in his eyes, but besides that, he was evidently extremely angry.

"Now look here," he said, "what business is it of yours whether I go around with Jane Perkins, or not? She's a respectable girl; she's a lady. What right have you got sticking your noses into my affairs?"

For myself, I was too much astonished by the result of the doctor's experiment to say anything. For that matter, my chief might as well have been silent for any effect his words had in calming the subject of our test. He wouldn't sit down. He wouldn't answer questions. He was through with us completely. This he made quite clear as he struggled into his overcoat and clapped on his hat.

"Well," said I when we were left alone, "I don't mind admitting that I'm rather behind the procession. We've discovered Jane Perkins, but who she is, or what she is I don't know. And I certainly can't see what gave you the clew that led you up to her so directly."

"Do you remember his association with the word 'sign'? It was 'Woodland.'"

"Yes," said I. "It struck me as curious."

"It struck me as rather more than that," said the doctor, "because I had an echo of the same association myself, and I spent ten solid minutes trying to place it. I suppose my difficulty came from the fact that it took me so close to home."

"Woodland avenue you mean?" I questioned. That was the street The Meredith was on.

"Closer than that," he said. "Do you remember our own corner and the street sign that marks it? It was pulled around diagonally and bent into a most disreputable angle as a Halloween prank two weeks ago. So the association was a perfectly natural one to anyone who, during the past two weeks, has been in the habit of frequenting our part of the town."

"But," said I, "how did you infer the existence of Jane Perkins from that?"

"Of course, that was only the starting point," he answered. "His whole train of associations made it evident that he had been 'going around,' as he said, with somebody. The place in the social scale occupied by that somebody was pretty well determined by the neighborhood of the street sign. It's quite the smartest part of town for blocks and blocks all around there, and it would be preposterous to assume that Will Harvey calls at the front door of any house thereabouts. The young ladies who use the front doors of the imposing residences in our neighborhood don't go to the sort of dances that would call up the association 'policeman' in any young man's mind. At any rate, it seemed a reasonable inference to me that our young friend had been carrying on a harmless flirtation with some housemaid. The scene of this affair was so far away from his own home, Jane Perkins was so utterly disassociated in his own mind from anything pertaining to the Oak Ridge mystery, that his naive description of the black hair and the green cloak of the woman whose silhouette he saw upon the shade becomes possible."

"Well," said I thoughtfully, after a little silence, "it's perfectly evident that we've done Harvey a service, although he isn't grateful for it just now. We've cleared him, to our own satisfaction at least. We've found an English housemaid named Jane Perkins. She is, no doubt, the girl of whom the profile on the shade reminded him. The next thing to do is to look her up, discover, if possible, whether she happens to possess a green cloak, with that particular kind of collar. It's likely enough, I suppose. There are probably hundreds of garments like that being worn in the city this season. In the department stores they make what they call 'specials' of those things, and sell them in hundred lots, all exactly alike."

The more I thought over the situation, the deeper my perplexity grew. The test upon Harvey had utterly destroyed my hope that we could get from him any clew to the identity of the strange, wild creature we had seen in the hospital. Instead, it had led us to a trig, snug, undoubtedly respectable English housemaid named Jane Perkins; and leading us to her, it left us face to face with a coincidence, or, rather, a series of coincidences almost incredible.

"Well," I resumed with a sigh, "there are lots of young women with black hair, and I suppose a good many of them wear green cloaks. But that a girl should have a profile like that of the extraordinary creature we saw in the hospital and later in Morgan's study—a profile like that and the same colored hair and the same sort of cloak, and still obviously a different person altogether, is rather disconcerting. Ashton at least would laugh at us if we told him we believed it."

"Yes," said the doctor, "Ashton would laugh. He laughs rather too easily, that young man."

Then, for the first time I looked long and searchingly into my old chief's face. His eyes were bright with excitement, his cheeks flushed and his big, restless hands beating out a triumphant tattoo upon the table top. He did not look like a man whose plans and theories had gone awry.

"There's something," I said curiously, "that I don't see yet."

"You will soon," he assured me, "before another day is out, unless I'm mistaken. Have a little patience."

There came a sharp knock at the door just then, and as it swung open, we saw Ashton standing there.

Use of Green Foods Common in All Ages

Lettuce is one of the oldest vegetables known and was eaten fully 500 years before the Christian era. Aristotle praised it highly. Spinach was introduced into China from Persia about 100 B. C., but was new to Europe in the Sixteenth century. Botanically, one of the most interesting products of the garden is the cabbage family. Kale, brussels sprouts, savoy cabbage, red cabbage, collards, kohlrabi, cauliflower and broccoli are all varieties of one species. Carrots were eaten by the ancients, but they were not very popular. Watercress, growing naturally in all north temperate regions, has been eaten as a salad since the Greek and Roman ascendancy and has been cultivated since the Sixteenth century. Peas were used by ancient Egyptians and others, but were not common food in Europe until the Eighteenth century. It is believed they were grown in the earliest American settlements. Thomas Jefferson recorded the growing of tomatoes in Virginia in 1781, yet it is said than an Italian could not persuade the people of Salem, Mass., to taste them in 1802.—Kansas City Times.

Wrote Immortal Music

Franz Schubert has been called "The Man of a Thousand Melodies," although the Etude, in writing of this, says that it is "a libel upon his enormous fecundity, because he might better be termed the man of 22,000 melodies." It is probable that no other composer of history produced so many themes, many of which are immortal.

Ridicule is the best test of truth; it will not stick where it is not just. —Chesterfield.

Gopher Star Wins Two Captaincies

Two captaincies in major sports have been voted to Mally Nydahl, University of Minnesota athlete, in a single year. As a senior Nydahl will head the basket-ball and baseball teams of the Gopher school next year. He is counted upon also as a mainstay in the backfield of the football team.

Nydahl went in as a substitute halfback in the Minnesota-Wisconsin football game last autumn and ran back a punt 75 yards to give his team a last-minute victory. He matched the feat in the baseball season by delivering a home run with the bases full.

WOULDN'T PLAY BALL ON SUNDAY

Not a Fanatic on Subject, but Rickey Obeys Mother.

Seamed and wrinkled by his generation in the service of baseball, Joe Sugden, coach of the Phillies, recently unbosomed himself of a secret that has tortured the imagination of fan and player alike for years. Indeed, curiosity, on and off the diamond, has been harassed and excited by this unrevealed tale of the diamond—the reason why Branch Rickey never would play Sunday baseball.

Rickey was manager of the Browns after an inconspicuous role as player. He became vice president of the St. Louis Cardinals, present monarchs of bat and ball, a position in which he still sits in majesty and security. Rickey is a man of many ideas, many plans, many schemes, writes Gordon Mackay in the Indianapolis Star. To his diamond cronies he is a man to esteem, to admire and to hail as a pioneer in the sport which has become the great national delirium.

Therefore it was no surprise when Rickey developed a streak of stubbornness against playing on Sunday. It was just one of Rickey's queer whims, argued the fans or laughed the players. Yet none really knew the reason why the Browns' manager voluntarily exiled himself from the bench on the Sabbath.

No religious scruples dictated this course. It was filial obedience, a promise which he had made to his white-haired mother back in Lucasville, Ohio, when he first ventured into professional baseball. It was this same loyalty of son to parent that buttressed him in his stand, when jeered by fans, snubbed by players and scorned by the joyous souls who write the drama of baseball daily.

"Rickey told me why he wouldn't play baseball on Sunday," declared Sugden. When he told his mother he was going to join the Browns as a ball player, the sweet-faced old lady said to him:

"Branch, don't play on Sunday."

Rickey said he wouldn't and he never did. But he wasn't any fanatic about the question. He wasn't against Sunday baseball, as a lot of chaps think. He was panned and roasted well, and a lot of baseball writers used to go over him in pretty raw style.

Cuyler Going Good

Hazen ("Kiki") Cuyler, star outfielder of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who was out of the game considerably earlier in the season on account of injuries, has fully recovered and is putting up his usual clever game in the field and is also hitting the ball hard.

Important That Hurlers Have Well Trained Legs

Pitchers must have good legs. They need them as much, if not more, than infielders and outfielders. If the pitcher's legs are not properly trained he cannot pitch his best.

The fact that many pitchers weaken toward the close of a game can in most cases be traced to legs improperly trained or not trained at all. That is plausible. A man cannot pitch good ball when his underpinning is weary.

Pitchers do more work than the other players combined. The pitcher is the only man on the field who is continuously in action.

The pitcher, if he trained his legs properly and made it a point to develop speed, could win a few games himself by base running. A number of games are lost each year because the pitcher is helpless when on the bases.

Printed Frock Is Liked by Milady

Popular in Large or Small Pattern, Bright or Subdued in Color.

The printed frock is the fashion of the hour. Small or large patterned, bright or subdued in color, with or without sleeves, in cotton or chiffon, they are in vogue for every hour of the day. Whatever one's preference in fabric or color one may choose from fashion's array at one's disposal and be smartly gowned—if one's costume is fashioned of print.

Interesting, indeed, is the wide divergence of patterns available in smart prints to suit both the conservative and extremist in tastes. Where formerly only floral decorations were considered good taste in printed fabrics, today cubists, impressionists and all the ultramodern in designs and colors have given of their art to make the most striking patterns and color effects for dressmaking uses.

The daytime printed frock follows the smart, simple sport mode in its lines and is fashioned of crepes, cottons and linen fabrics, while the afternoon and sleeveless dance frock developed of the most delicate printed chiffons is tiered, paneled and has unusual plait treatments to lend it variety. These soft frocks with flowing sleeves and long plaited panels or tiers worn with large picture hats are the favorite costumes for afternoon wear whether one has tea in town or at the garden party.

The printed chiffon ensemble cut on extremely simple lines, depending for its chic on the smartness of its material and novel plaiting arrangements, vies with the new sports cotton print ensemble. The latter are seen either entirely of the printed material or with the accompanying frock in a solid color.

The cubists' invasion in the field of fashion is depicted in a futuristic frock worn by Gertrude Olmsted, featured motion picture actress in "The Callahans and the Murphys." Against a background of beige the weirdest of designs in brown, tan and black are printed. Because of its bizarre material, the cut of the gown is simple. It has a round neckline, long sleeves trimmed with buttons, a girdle of self-material at the natural waistline and a cascade down the front. A simple felt hat is worn with it.

Embroidery on Sleeves Fashionable This Year

In all the centuries, fashion has never gotten entirely away from embroidery and never will. It all depends, however, where embroidery is placed whether it is fashion or not. Just now it should bedeck sleeves. The latter are growing larger, gaining in circumference as the wrist is approached. Many of these, as well as the bishop type, are heavily crusted with embroidery. Bead trimmings are occasionally interspersed with the needlework.

Diagonal Treatment of Trimmings Is Feature

A diagonal treatment of trimmings is a distinctive feature of the newer frocks. The dressmakers are finding that they can stress the long, slenderizing lines by placing tuckings, plaitings, stitchings and appliques diagonally. Bands of dull black broadcloth trim gowns of satin, while often gleaming satin is used diagonally to decorate the dull surfaced materials.

Flower for Printed Frock

If you are wondering whether to wear a flower with your printed dress—try a soft one of the color which you wish to accentuate in the print and you will find it produces exactly the right effect. Never choose, however, a boutonniere containing a variety of flowers of different colors.

Prominent "Movie" Star in All-White Costume

Natalie Kingston, featured player in the motion picture, "Framed," has selected an interesting and picturesque costume of all-white that is at the height of the mode. It is designed along unusual lines and has an extremely full and uneven skirt, a snug waist with a scarf effect at the neck and a silver flower at one shoulder. Contrary to many of the formal gowns, it possesses sleeves and they are both long and full.

Handkerchief Trimming Adds to the Plain Frock

Handkerchief dresses are with us again, though in slightly different form.

The new way is to use the handkerchiefs for trimming a perfectly plain frock, preferably a slim dress of dull black satin, charmeuse or crepe de chine. Three handkerchiefs of figured silk in very bright colors—one very large and two smaller handkerchiefs—are used.

The large handkerchief is fixed cornerwise down the right side of the dress, from back to front—one point is fixed across the front of the frock on the left hip, and the other corresponding point on the same hip at the back. The remaining points of the handkerchief go to the shoulder and the hem of the dress. Usually a dress with long tight-fitting sleeves is chosen, and the two small handkerchiefs fall from these sleeves, one side of each handkerchief being stitched down each sleeve from elbow to wrist.

Paris Rumor That Yokes Will Be Fall Fashion

There is a rumor in Paris that yokes are to be an important innovation on many coats and daytime dresses this fall.

The evidence to bear out the report is slight, but the hectic looking people who emerge from the dressmaking workshops with their mouths full of pins and faces full of importance agree that there may be something to the report.

At Worth's one of the newest coats has a yoke design accentuated by solid cross stitch of several tones. There is a deep band of the same cross stitch at the bottom of the coat.

New Garter Invented for Rolled Stockings

A new garter has been patented which is especially designed for rolled stockings. It has a double row of raised sections that interlock when the garter is adjusted and prevent slipping.

To wear them the garter is put on first and the top of the stocking is brought up over the first section of the garter. The remaining exposed part of the garter is then turned over the stocking and the whole is folded over once more. Presto! The stocking is securely in place and will remain so until removed by the wearer.

New Frock Trimming

For cloth frocks nailheads are a popular trimming, replacing, in a way, beaded or silk embroidery. Some of the imported two-piece models have the entire bodice portions studded with either silver or gilt nailheads placed in floral or geometrical designs. Felt hats with brims outlined in nailheads or with crowns embellished with nailheads are to be shown later on.

For Busy Women

The most popular costume for the busy woman is the trim two-piece suit. A dainty blouse makes it suitable for almost any occasion.

Tans and grays are very well liked this season, with the always popular navy also much in evidence.

Rubber Scarfs for Beach

Scarfs of rubber which match the bathing cap and the rubber flower without which no mermaid's costume is compete this season, are seen at French resorts. The scarfs are trimmed with flowers or have amusing designs painted on them.

A Clashing of the Ages

By H. IRVING KING

(Copyright.)

HOLLINGTON DAVIS never told his age unless by legal requirement. When he thought of it he did so with a sense of irritation. Why shouldn't he? He was not seventy yet and looked ten years younger.

The fact remained that, young as Mr. Hollington Davis was, Alice Thorndyke was still younger—a mere child of twenty-four. And with the unreasoning impulses of childhood she looked upon Hollington as "old." He had been her father's friend and legal adviser and was her guardian until she became of the age of twenty-five, or got married. If she married before she was twenty-five without her guardian's consent the bulk of the paternal fortune went to found a chair of Alaskan archeology in some college or institution.

But all the provisions of all the wills that were ever drawn will not prevent young folks from falling in love. Alice and Howard Edgerton fell in love—and it seemed like waiting until doomsday for them to wait a whole year before they were married. And now that Howard had formally proposed, and been accepted, it was up to Alice to get her guardian's consent.

When Alice, all youth and bloom and loveliness, blew in on her guardian and told him all that had happened, and all that was going to happen, that mature gentleman received a shock. It was only a day or two before that he had held a long and serious consultation with himself. He was a bachelor and was tired of hearing well-meaning idiots remark: "It's a wonder you never got married." During the day some one had made that trite remark and whereas it had only irritated him before it now set him to thinking. Perhaps it was because Alice had been to see him the previous week to get her quarter's allowance.

Any way the wheels were set going and this is the way they buzzed. "But she is so much younger than you are." "Oh, I don't know—there are precedents." And, being a legal gentleman, he went over in his mind all the precedents for the union of May and December that he could remember. Then he resumed the argument. "Nobody takes me for more than sixty—and Alice is—Pshaw; I am old enough to be her grandfather. What a fool I am! Here I am, priding myself on keeping young, and the same time breaking out all over with the symptoms of age. Forget it, Hollington! forget it." What you need now is buttermilk to stop the hardening of arteries and facial massage to eliminate the wrinkles."

Then, putting all that "tommyrot" aside, Mr. Hollington Davis attended a board meeting; where he put through a big business deal; got into his uniform as a Spanish war veteran and marched six miles over city pavements to a "banquet" where he ate rich food and listened to speeches until midnight; went home; went to bed; slept like a child and woke up the next morning feeling fine. Then Alice the young, the bewitching, blew in on him.

It was a short, composite shock she gave him. One of its compositions was the sudden remembrance of the colloquy he had held with himself two days before. But he sternly put all that sort of thing away. He became all judicial lawyer and judicious guardian at once. "I must know more of this young man before I can give my consent," said he when Alice had finished her story. She was astonished.

"Why, Howard is right out in the anteroom waiting," she cried, "I'll bring him in." Although appalled at her guardian's reception of her news she was confident that when he once saw Howard it would be all right.

Howard came in, a trifle truculent; he knew that something had gone wrong. At the demand of Mr. Davis he stated his desires and qualifications. Hollington placed him on the witness stand and put him through the third degree. Only, mind you, because he was anxious to do his full duty and make no mistake in giving his consent to the proposed marriage. "I think," said he, at last, "that I would not be justified in giving my consent just now to your marriage with my ward."

"Very well, sir," replied Howard. "We have taken out a marriage license and we propose to be married forthwith."

"You know what you will forfeit if you do?" said Hollington.

"Perfectly sir," returned Howard, "and we count it as nothing. Good day." And he marched out with Alice clinging to his arm.

Hollington took the next elevator down. A taxi cab was just starting off. "Follow that taxi," he cried to the chauffeur of his own car which happened to be waiting. Before the quiet little wedding which had been arranged had fairly begun, Hollington was in their midst. "I just came," said he smilingly to Alice, "to give you away in loco parentis. You have my full consent. Edgerton, take good care of her—for she is only a child."

That night, before going to bed Hollington opened an old photograph album and looked at a picture of a youth taken in the early '70s. "No," said he, "I think she would have preferred Howard, even then."

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

by Mary Graham Bonner

COPYRIGHT BY WESTERN NEWSPAPER UNION

THE APPLE TREE

"Of all the trees in the orchard," began Daddy, "every spring this old apple tree I am going to tell you about had the most beautiful of blossoms.

"And when midsummer came along the apples that came out on that tree had, somehow, a better taste than the apples from any other tree.

"And one day I found out the reason.

"I thought the hammock, which hung under the apple tree, looked very comfortable, and so I made myself most cozy and happy.

"It was not long before I dozed off into a nice little nap, and then I heard what the apple tree was saying to the little unripe apples on the boughs.

"'You must grow to be fine and ripe, and you must keep all the little apple seeds good and warm so they can be just as brown as brown can be.

"'That will mean that little boys and little girls can eat all they want,

The Apple That Is First Ripe.

for as long as the seeds are brown they can never do any harm.

"'And, you apples, you must be very sure that you turn around and have the sun warm you and make you bright and red.'

"As the old apple tree was talking, I noticed that the apples just grew a little bit bigger, and redder, and fatter, and looked as though—oh—they were so juicy and wonderful inside.

"I was certain, too, that the little seeds were growing browner every minute.

"'You see,' he continued, 'It's such an honor for us. You know that on the day we're ripe, the Fairy Queen brings all the little fairies to admire us.

"'They sit on the boughs and wave about with us.

"'And more than that—you know the apple that is first ripe goes to the Fairy Queen and then some more go to the little fairies.'

"The fairies are too kind to take away the apples that real people like to eat—and so the old apple tree has arranged to have a great many more that we can't see—they're called the apples of Fairyland.

"And the tree still went on talking:

"'I, too, am working hard. I am practicing my best bow to make to the Fairy Queen when she arrives the first day all the apples are ripe.

"'She is to come very, very early in the morning while everyone else is sleeping.

"'And when the children get up and find the apples are ripe so quickly, won't they be delighted!

"'Now, get around so Mr. Sun will help you along. He's the greatest help in the world to us—such a dear old soul.'

"Of course, that flattered Mr. Sun so he helped still more, and just as I could feel him shining down with all his might—I woke up.

"I moved away from the apple tree then—for it was no longer shady—the sun had come around and told me to get up!

"But as I walked away and saw the apple tree waving around I knew it was practicing for its bow and making the little apples hurry up and ripen."

Sister Was Too Loose

Bob was given the care of little sister while mother made a few purchases. At the end of five minutes he appeared in the store forcibly towing the baby.

"Oh, mamma," said he with weary patience, "put her in the cab. This way she's too loose."

Was Father's Daughter

The telephone rang. Little June went to answer. A gentleman at the other end wanted father. Upon being told he was not in he asked whom he was speaking to.

June said: "I'm my father's daughter."

Who Soap Was For

Little Gertrude bought a cake of toilet soap and told the druggist to charge it.

"Who is it for?" inquired the druggist.

"For all of us," replied Gertrude.—Children, The Magazine for Parents.

Poisonous in Part

A word of warning: Many flowers are poisonous or semi-poisonous. Those of the daffodil, for instance, are powerfully emetic. It is not generally understood that many plants may be poisonous in one part. A striking example is the rhubarb, where only an inch or two at the top of the stem lies between the poisonous leaf and delicious stalk.

Ye Gods! Another Atrocity

Flyosan still killing flies and mosquitoes by the millions

ARE you still fighting flies and mosquitoes by swatting them one at a time? Or do you use Flyosan—original and best liquid spray (non-poisonous)—which wipes them out by the wholesale?

Mosquitoes and the common house-fly, the deadliest pests that invade the home, are loaded with millions of disease germs.

"Swatting" them scatters these deadly germs into the air which you and your family breathe.

Flyosan floats through your rooms. It destroys all these germs as well as all the flies and mosquitoes which carry them.

Here is the right insecticide for each insect:

FLYOSAN, Liquid Spray—kills flies and mosquitoes.

PETERMAN'S ANT FOOD—exterminates ants.

PETERMAN'S DISCOVERY, Liquid—exterminates bed-bugs.

PETERMAN'S ROACH FOOD—exterminates that cockroach army.

PETERMAN'S MOTH FOOD—protects against moths.

You must have a specific insecticide for each insect. No single insecticide will exterminate them all. We have had nearly 50 years' experience. We know that is true.

Peterman's has the right insecticide for each insect. On sale wherever drugs are sold.

If you have any problem of any kind that seems to associate itself with our business, we wish you would come in and talk it over. Maybe we have information here that you can use.

Horse sense behind the steering wheel is better than horse power under the hood.

It's all in getting the right kind of a start! Six years ago the Browns bought a car. The Greens built a home. Today a car is about all the Browns own. But the Greens have paid for that home and are getting a car.

Educational

Teacher: "George, who defeated the Phillistines?"

George: "Aw, I don't know—I don't follow those Bush League teams."

When the college graduate starts to look for a job, the thing that gets his goat is the high wages paid plasterers.

"You should have seen Mabel dance the Charleston last night."

"Dance nothing! She was just standing there watching when a June bug fell down her back."

To build your own home is merely proof of intelligence. You cannot live intelligently and pay much of your earnings to the landlord.

Jim: "Ever see one of those machines that tells when a person is lying?"

John: "Seen one? Lord! I married one."

When the Donkey saw the Zebra,
He began to switch his tail,
"Well, I never," said the Donkey,
"There's a Mule that's been in jail."
